4 THINGS TO KNOW

Witch hunt or necessity? Maine's rugged independent voters torn over impeaching Trump

Maine has a majority of unaffiliated voters.

Sean Fowler, 43, poses in Lewiston, Maine. REUTERS

In an era of hyper partisan politics, Sean Fowler is a rarity: an independent voter who once considered the impeachment inquiry into U.S. President Donald Trump a "witch hunt" and now thinks Congress should remove him from office.

But the customer service worker in Maine remains apprehensive about the potential upheaval, an indication of the mixed emotions independents – and those politicians who depend on them – are feeling around the impeachment fight consuming Washington one year before the 2020 election.

The small slice of the American electorate that is truly independent can play an outsized role in picking presidents and there is no better example of that than in Maine, a state where more voters are registered to no political party than are Republican or Democratic.

The impeachment proceeding could complicate both parties' efforts to win over politically unaffiliated voters, according to Reuters/Ipsos opinion polling and interviews with about a dozen independent voters in Maine.

Overall support for Republican Trump's impeachment among independents has increased, the national Reuters/Ipsos poll showed in late October. The poll found 45% of independents supported impeachment while 32% opposed – a 13 percentage point spread and the largest gap since the poll began tracking views on impeachment in June 2018.

However, a majority of independents do not appear to want another lengthy investigation after having observed a nearly two-year-long special counsel's Trump-Russia election probe – 54% agreeing that "Congress should focus on fixing important problems facing Americans, rather than focusing on investigating President Trump."

> "Congress should focus on fixing important problems facing Americans, rather than focusing on investigating President Trump."
> 54% of respondents in a Reuters/Ipsos poll

Some independents in Maine echoed the polling, saying they were becoming more open to impeachment as the evidence comes to light. Others said they were concerned the effort was hurting the country.

Reuters/Ipsos polling shows there is room for independents to further embrace impeachment.

"While 45% of voters said Trump should be impeached, 48% said they had already concluded that Trump "pressured Ukraine to investigate Biden." An even bigger group - 59% - thought it was appropriate for Congress to investigate."

2 LGBTQ characters on U.S. television at all time high

Shows like "Batwoman," "Pose" and "Euphoria" have brought the number of lesbian, gay and transgender characters on U.S. television to a record high, helping to accelerate acceptance of sexual diversity in wider society, according to a report issued on Thursday. Advocacy group GLAAD said that LGBTQ characters made up 10.2% of primetime series regulars on traditional network television. That was the highest percentage in the 15 years that the organization has been tracking numbers and a 1.4% increase over the previous year. Adding in those with recurring roles in the 2019-2020 television season now underway, GLAAD calculated that there are now 488 LGBTQ characters in scripted television series on broadcast, cable and streaming platforms in the United States.

3 Pence aide testifies in impeachment inquiry

U.S. congressional committees conducting an impeachment probe of President Donald Trump met on Thursday for the first time with an adviser to Vice President Mike Pence, but former national security adviser John Bolton failed to heed a request to appear. Jennifer Williams, a career foreign service officer and special adviser to Pence for Europe and Russia, was testifying in a closed-door hearing in front of members of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs, Intelligence and Oversight committees after receiving a subpoena to compel her testimony. Lawmakers are seeking to find out how much Pence knew about efforts by Trump and those around him to pressure Ukraine to investigate former VP Joe Biden and his son Hunter, as well as foreign interference in the 2016 U.S. election.

4 A 'green interest rate?' Fed digs into climate change

In their deliberations on monetary policy, Federal Reserve policymakers need to consider many factors, but up to now, climate change has not been one of them. But as worries about the warming planet increase, the U.S. central bank is taking a closer look at the economic impacts of higher temperatures, more frequent severe weather, and rising sea levels. A "green interest rate" is one of the ideas on view Friday as the San Francisco Fed convenes the U.S. central bank's first-ever conference on climate change and economics. While the Fed lags central banking peers such as the Bank of England in making climate change an explicit part of its financial stability remit, the conference is the latest sign the Fed has started to take the risks and costs of global warming seriously.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

Animal rescuers are on the lookout for the brassy black cat that ran across the MetLife football field during a Cowboys-Giants game earlier this week.

MetLife has brought in PuppyKittyNYCity (PKNYC) to help rescue the now famous cat. PKNYC is a non-profit organization that is all volunteer run. According to its website, from July 2018 to September 2019, it has rescued 649 cats and 29 dogs. They have also had 380 adoptions take place over the same course of time.

The plan is to trap, neuter and release the MetLife cat.

MetLife Stadium shared an update on social media, so those concerned about the black cat can ease their worries. On Twitter, they shared, "#BlackCat Update."

The note reads:

"Tuesday morning, we set multiple humane traps throughout the stadium and searched long and hard for the black cat to no avail. At that point, we brought in our friends at PuppyKittyNYCity, a Trap, Neuter, Release (TNR) and no-kill shelter, to assist with the search. We are hopeful that together we can find the black cat that we all fell in love with Monday night."

The statement continues, "There have been erroneous reports in the media that MetLife Stadium houses and feeds 300 stray cats which is simply not true. From time to time, we have seen cats on the complex and the Meadowlands Racetrack (located at the Sports Complex) has a TNR program in place and currently feeds approximately 30 barn cats."

"We are grateful for the outpouring of support and will continue to work with PuppyKittyNYCity to try and locate the Black Cat."

The black cat hopped onto the field during the Giants' drive in the second quarter, causing the game to be delayed by referee Clay Martin.

> "We are grateful for the outpouring support and will continue to work with PuppyKittyNYCity to try and locate the Black Cat."
> MetLife

During its viral moment, MetLife Stadium staff and New Jersey State Troopers attempted to herd the cat towards the end zone, away from the players. It eventually exited the field in the corner of the end zone and into the tunnel but has yet to be found.

If you are feeling inspired to adopt your own black cat, PKNYC has plenty of options, available on their website.

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

SOLICITORS

My grumble is with the fund solicitors on the street who greet you with huge smiles, lots of hand waving and peppy statements. They act as if they want to be your new best friend. In reality all they want is a financial commitment to their employer organization and your credit card information. Their approach is so saccharine sweet - you know it's insincere - and that is a real turn-off.

Living their maturity - JONAS BROTHERS

GETTY

GABRIELA ACOSTA SILVA, MWN

The Jonas Brothers are in the middle of their Happiness Begins Tour. The band's comeback to stages worldwide has become a musical injection to lift the spirits of its followers. No matter the age, everyone starts to move their feet when they hear the songs of this band composed by Joe, Nick and Kevin Jonas. In the midst of a pop landscape widely dominated by reunions, the brothers are willing to take on this tour to share their happiness. Joe Jonas spoke with Metro about this path besides his partners in crime.

What broke when you guys split up and what brought you back together again?
When the band broke up, we were a little angry and it was complicated. The music was not as strong as it had been, we weren't selling as many tickets; besides, our relationship was not healthy. We were not communicating as we should. We always thought that this bad stage would pass and that we would eventually get back together. Now we're living a maturity in every sense.

How have you taken the tour's success?
It's been amazing! We have grown with the music, the feeling of being together, the audience reacting quickly and that our new songs "Sucker," "Only Human" and "Cool" have reached the world fast, is a good sign. We feel lucky and happy, and that only makes us want to work harder, because we want to stay on stage for a while.

> "We want our fans to know that we can't wait to look them in the eyes and sing intensely."
> Joe Jonas

What is the biggest gift that being in this band has given you?
It has brought us a lot of happiness, it is something that all of us always wanted to do and while we enjoy doing it, without pressure and without worries, we are just having a good time.

How serious are you when making music?
Our job is to have a great time at our concerts. We have worked a lifetime for it. Therefore, nobody takes music as seriously as we do. We are also at a stage with a lot of personal and professional balance, it shows in what we do.

Some people claim that the Jonas Brothers will not last long, what do you think of that?
Tell them to talk to us in five years. [Laughs]

Pop has been very questioned in recent years, what do you think about that?
I think it's going through a serious time. I think there are many artists who make pop that does not lead to anything ... I don't know, so I hope we are bringing something different and fun, but that people take seriously.

The controlled chaos of Black Midi

We caught up with the exciting new band as they tour across the country this fall.

PAT KING

It's an understatement to say the media world can be guilty of only understanding art on a surface level. A perfect example of this could be seen as the much-buzzed-about and young British art-punk band, Black Midi, made their U.S. television debut this past week. Like most new bands, exposure on any level can be paramount to their momentum. But instead of making the first appearance on the late night talk show circuit, the band was asked to perform on Chicago's WGN morning news show.

I'm not saying the people at WGN were not fans of the band, with their challenging and sometimes punishing brand of post-punk. But I'm guessing there was a sense of "what the hell just happened" lingering in the air after the band tore through a particularly vicious version of their song "Near DT, MI" from their fantastic debut album, "Schlagenheim" (which is German for, "To Hit"). Bassist and singer Cameron Picton shouts the words in a locked position as the rest of the band – guitarists Geordie Greep and Matt Kwasniewski-Kelvin and drummer Morgan Simpson – absolutely dismantle the studio with their intensity. It will go down in what will be another chapter in the folklore surrounding this already storied band and in a way, makes sense for what they are out to accomplish: the complete dismantling of conventions.

DAN KENDALL

"We didn't really set out to start a band, per se. We were just friends," says Greep, whose singular vocal stylings and intricate guitar playing are cornerstones to the band's sound. "There was never really a point where we were like 'we're a band now. We're a band so let's try to make it as a band.' We had gigs and it just went."

The band members all met while attending the prestigious BRIT School and started Black Midi right after graduating. Listening to their brief body of work, it's baffling to think of a band that can cram so many ideas into each of their songs, with a masterful grasp of controlled chaos, and are all in their early twenties.

"We just start with one idea or two ideas. But the main idea is to keep the songs exciting, dramatic and interesting. They need a real trajectory. It's just about keeping them moving and to have a thematic structure," says Greep of the band's creative process. "Tension and release is one of the most important parts in music, really. We weren't really thinking about making an album, it was just more about having songs we liked for the live show."

Catch Black Midi this Monday, Nov. 11 at Warsaw. 261 Driggs Ave., Brooklyn.

TO: PAST OR PRESENT EMPLOYEES, OF 4-A GENERAL CONTRACTING CORP., SSN GENERAL CONTRACTING CORP., SNA CONTRACTING CORP., DELLWOOD & 4A CONSTRUCTION, LLC, (COLLECTIVLEY THE "4A DEFENDANTS") WHO PERFORMED CONSTRUCTION WORK ON SPECIFIC NEW YORK CITY HOUSING AUTHORITY PROJECTS BETWEEN APRIL 1, 1996 AND DECEMBER 31, 2003.

If you were employed as a construction worker by one or more of the 4A Defendants at any time between April 1, 1996 through December 31, 2003 and you worked at Amsterdam Houses, Bayview Houses, Beach 41st Street Houses, Bryant Houses, Langston Hughes Houses, Monroe Houses, Nostrand Houses, Penn Wortman Houses, Gompers Houses, Pink Houses, Sedgwick Houses or Seth Low Houses (the "NYCHA Projects") you may be eligible to participate in a proposed class action settlement of the case entitled Moreta, et al. v 4-A General Contracting Corp. Index No. 601548/2002, pending in the Supreme Court of New York, County of New York, (the "Litigation"). If you demonstrate that you qualify you may be entitled to receive an allocated share of the settlement, a portion of which is subject to deductions for applicable taxes and withholdings. This amount is based on a negotiated settlement formula preliminarily approved by the Court and described in the Notice of Proposed Class Action Settlement.

Miguel Moreta, Jose Munoz, Geraldo Quezada, Leonard Clarke, Denville Jarvis and Runey Francis (the "Named Plaintiffs") are former employees of the 4A Defendants who brought this case alleging that they and other construction workers were not paid prevailing wages and supplemental benefits for the type of trade work they had performed (demolition laborer, carpentry, plastering, tile work, plumbing, painting, etc.) on the NYCHA Projects.

In addition to suing the 4A Defendants, the Named Plaintiffs also sued RLI Insurance Company ("RLI") and Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company ("Lumbermens") who furnished Payment Bonds on the NYCHA projects. The terms of the Payment Bonds generally require a bonding company to pay any bona fide wage claims that the 4A Defendants failed to pay. RLI furnished a Payment Bond on the following projects that are the subject of this settlement: Amsterdam, Bayview, Beach 41st Street, Bryant, Langston Hughes, Monroe, Nostrand, Penn Wortman, Pink, Sedgwick, Seth Low (called the "RLI Bonded Projects"). RLI also provided a Payment Bond on the Woodside Houses project, however this lawsuit was commenced after the time to bring a claim had expired. Lumbermens furnished a Payment Bond on the Gompers project. RLI and Lumbermens deny Plaintiffs' allegations and maintain that the 4A workers were paid correctly.

To avoid the burden, expense, inconvenience, and uncertainty of continued litigation, and after careful consideration and years of intensive discovery and negotiations, the parties have concluded that it is in their best interest to resolve and settle this Litigation by entering into a settlement agreement pursuant to which RLI and Lumbermens will pay a total of $12,000,000 to settle the claims in this case, from which amount all costs of the case, including payment of attorneys' fees, potential service awards, litigation costs, and the expenses of administering the settlement, shall be distributed.

Based on the allocation formula created by the settlement you may be entitled to receive an allocated share of the settlement, a portion of which is subject to deductions for applicable taxes and withholdings. This amount is based on a negotiated settlement formula preliminarily approved by the Court and described in the Notice. These rights and options, and the deadlines to exercise the rights and options are explained in the Notice as well. The Court has not yet decided to approve this settlement. Payments will be made if the Court approves the settlement and after any potential appeals are resolved.

HOW CAN I LEARN MORE ABOUT THE SETTLEMENT?

You will need to file a Claim Form, with other supporting documents on or before December 30, 2019 if you wish to participate in this proposed class action settlement. The Notice will explain how you can opt-out of or object to the settlement. You may obtain the Notice and Claim Form by contacting Class Counsel or the Claims Administrator:

Luke Kleintank and Thomas Jane in "Crown Vic." PHIL CARUSO

A look behind the badge

Luke Kleintank talks.

MOLLY GIVEN

There have been a vast amount of films following the stories of police officers in the past, even just in the last year alone. Some highlight the admirable courage an officer can showcase, some point out flaws in the justice system and in those who carry it out, but with Joel Souza's latest thriller "Crown Vic," the storyline is not meant to sway audiences one way or another — it's meant to show a real human story. "Crown Vic" follows the story of hardened and accomplished officer Ray (Thomas Jane) and rookie cop Nick Holland (Luke Kleintank) on Nick's first shift on the job, and to say this night becomes eventful is an understatement. For Luke Kleintank, the story hits more of a familiar note after riding around on the same shift his character would have experienced with the LAPD. It's the things he saw, and the experiences he lived with the officers that helped him frame his character and overall feel of what the job requires every day. Kleintank sat down with Metro to give more insight into his character and the hard-hitting film.

What first drew you to the character of Nick Holland?

For me, I was always interested — ever since I started acting I always thought it would be intriguing to play any man of service, especially a cop. Today they get a lot of flak, and the beautiful thing is as an actor you get the chance to spend time with these people working. I had the opportunity to see their side of things as opposed to reading whatever is in the news or through personal opinions. Nick himself is a newbie, he's coming into this with wide-open eyes. He wants to do right by his family, and do right by his community, but I don't think he's ready for what's about to hit him.

What sets "Crown Vic" apart from other films of the same genre?

It's real. Thomas (Jane) and I ended up riding along with police officers about five or six times and we really got to speak to and see these guys on the job. I even had the chance to invite one of them out to the premiere at Tribeca. It definitely fits the bill as far as mainly the time they spend in the car. There are good cops and there are bad cops, and I don't think we're trying to speak on any one point in general, we're just telling a human story.

Thomas Jane's character makes a comment at the end of the film that Nick Holland reminds him of a younger version of himself, would you agree with that?

I would, to a degree. Ray is doing what he's doing, but not as a dirty cop. You have the other dirty cops we showcase in the story played by Josh Hopkins and David Krumholtz, but Ray is a man doing what he has to do. Is he overstepping boundaries and using his power? Of course he is, but at the same time, you've got to ask the question: what would you do in the same situation? Whether or not you're a cop, you would try to save your loved ones — he just happens to be a police officer. What I think is beautiful about this movie is there is a lot of gray area. It raises those questions, and it gets people talking. So I think [Nick] could be a younger version of him, they both went into it with the same kind of hopes and dreams. Ray went into this job thinking protect and serve, but with all of the weight that comes along with the job, it hardens you. You spend all of this time with negativity around you and you start to wonder and analyze people wondering if they are a threat or not. The other side of it is where they get to save people, and that's the rewarding part. But 8 times out of 10 these guys are battling something that is going to affect their mentality in a great way.

I think it's undecided. Nick comes from a stock of police officers and I think he now realizes why his dad was so silent when he would come home after a shift. He talks about not having a relationship with his father and how he's afraid of messing up with his own child on the way. But it's interesting how we really do become our parents. But I think Nick has a lot to offer with fresh eyes, and hopefully, he sticks with honestly protecting and serving. But it's interesting because Ray says it at the end, "You have to do things on other people's behalf, and they will hate you for it." There's a lot of truth in that.

"Crown Vic" opens in NYC on Nov. 8 and in additional cities on Nov. 15.

A New Sex Pill Takes the Spotlight as the Viagra Patent is About to Expire

A patented pill costing less than $1 a dose stands to help millions of men with failing sex lives; no prescription will be required

By Ray Wilson
Associated Health Press

AHP – A new sex pill is set to take the spotlight with the Viagra patent about to expire. But unlike the former, it won't require a prescription and is priced just under a $1 a dose.

The new pill called Vesele is part of a new class of performance enhancers for men, which work instantaneously on the body and mind triggering arousal and firmer, harder erections.

Formulated with a special compound known as an "accelerator", Vesele can transport its active ingredients faster and more efficiently into the blood stream, where it begins to work its magic.

The patented ingredient blend initiates a process known as vasodilation, which causes arteries and vessels throughout the body to expand. This allows blood to flow directly to penis and genitals, resulting in harder erections which last longer. Cialis and Viagra are based around a simlilar concept.

But what makes Vesele so remarkable, and what these other sex pills can't do, is that also directs a small portion of this blood flow to the brain, which creates feelings of intense arousal. In laymen's terms, users become incredibly excited and turned on.

This is why the makers of Vesele say their pill has worked so effectively in clinical trials. It stimulates the two most important organs for great sex, the penis and the brain.

The Brain Erection Connection

Until now, medical researchers did not fully understand the brain-erection connection. It has now been made clear with Vesele. When both are supplied with a constant blood flow, men are harder and firmer for longer...and have unbelievable sex drives.

"Most of the research and treatment methods for men's sexual failures have focused on physiological factors and have neglected the emotional ones. For the leading sex drugs to work, like Cialis and Viagra, you need visual stimulation" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the creator of Vesele.

"And although they work for some men, the majority experience absolutely no fulfillment during sex.

According to research published by the National Institute of Health, 50% of men taking these drugs stop responding or can't tolerate their side effects...and on top of that they spend $50 per pill and it doesn't even work half the time.

This is what makes Vesele so different and effective. It floods the blood stream with key ingredients which cause arteries all over the body to expand. The patented accelerator speeds up this process even more.

The result is a rush of blood flow to the penis and brain, helping to create an impressive erection and a surging desire for sex. Often, this is all men need to get going. And when taken regularly, many men say they are energized and aroused all day."

Great Sex At Any Age

With the conclusion of their latest human clinical use survey trial, Dr. Esber and his team are now offering Vesele in the US. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men across the country are eager to get their hands on the new pill and according to the research, they should be.

In the trial above, as compared to baseline, men taking Vesele saw a staggering 85% improvement in erection hardness over a four-month period. Their erections also lasted twice as long.

These same men also experienced an astounding 82% increase in the desire for sex (libido/sex drive) and an even greater improvement in overall satisfaction and ability to satisfy their partners.

Many men taking Vesele described feeling horny and aroused through the day. The anticipation before sex was amazing. They were also easily turned on. Their moods were more upbeat and positive, too.

Faster Absorption into the Blood Stream

Vesele is made up of three specialized ingredients: two clinical strength vasodilators and a patented absorption enhancer often called an accelerator. According to an enormous amount of clinical data, each is very safe.

Research shows that with age, many men lose their desire and interest in sex. They also struggle to produce an erection firm enough for penetration.

And although there are many theories as to why this happens (including a loss in testosterone) one thing is certain, inadequate blood flow is virtually always to blame. That's why sex drug manufacturers focus on blood flow, it makes your erection hard.

But what's more surprising, and what these manufacturers have failed to consider, is that lack of blood flow can also kill your sex drive. That's because blood supplies energy for the brain. This energy is required for creating brainwaves that cause excitability and arousal.

Studies show the Vesele stimulates the entire cardiovascular system, including the arteries that lead to both the brain and penis. The extreme concentration of the ingredients combined with the accelerator ensures that this process starts quickly.

Expiring Patent Opens the Door to a New Sex Pill: Vesele is a new pill that cost just $1 a dose does not require a prescription. It works on both body and mind to increase arousal and erection hardness.

The sexual benefits of Vesele are also multiplied as its ingredients build up in the system over time. This is why many men take it every single day.

Recent Studies Show Positive Effects on Women

In the same study referenced throughout, Vesele was also shown to have an amazing (and somewhat surprising) effect on women too. That's because the same arteries and vessels that carry blood and oxygen to the brain and genitals are the same in men and women.

"In our most recent study, women taking Vesele saw a stunning 52% improvement in arousal and sex drive. Perhaps more impressive, they also experienced a 57% improvement in lubrication.

You can imagine why some couples are taking Vesele together. Everything feels better. Everything works better. Everyone performs better. It's truly amazing."

A New Frontier of Non-Prescription Sex Pills

With daily use, Vesele is helping men (and women) restore failing sex lives and overcome sexual lets downs without side effect or expense.

Through a patented absorption enhancer, the Vesele formula hits the bloodstream quickly, resulting in phenomenal improvements in erection firmness and hardness. By boosting blood flow to the brain, users also experience sexual urges and arousal they often haven't felt in years.

Miserable Giants, lost Jets meet in rivalry game

The MetLife Stadium rivalry resumes on Sunday during a season in which both teams are going nowhere.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Sunday afternoon is going to be an odd one for New York City-area football fans.

On one hand, the Giants and Jets are playing each other in the regular season for the first time in four years on Sunday (1 p.m. ET, FOX).

Regional (and in-stadium) bragging rights are up for grabs, divided households will be donned in clashing blue and green, and parents with conflicting football ideologies will use this game to try and recruit undecided children to a lifetime of fandom.

On the other hand, the Giants and Jets are playing each other on Sunday.

Full stop.

Please, won't anyone think of the children before subjecting them to this kind of football?

Nothing takes the magic of a rare rivalry meeting than both teams being downright lousy.

The Giants are a mess. Pat Shurmur doesn't know how to properly utilize Saquon Barkley. Daniel Jones can't hold on to the football. The offensive line hasn't improved in what feels like a decade. And the defense still doesn't know what they're doing.

That last part isn't an overreaction. Rookie cornerback Deandre Baker said earlier this week that he still can't grasp defensive coordinator James Bettcher's schemes.

Yet, the Jets have found a way to one-up the Giants this season in a rather remarkable turn of events.

Adam Gase has further proven that he is not fit to be an NFL head coach while he continues to derail the development of franchise quarterback Sam Darnold.

All-Pro running back Le'Veon Bell — who has been nothing short of a good soldier so far — has been left out on an island behind the inept offensive play calling and an offensive line that can rival the Giants' level of putridness.

Defensive captain and safety Jamal Adams had a very public row with management after some trade rumors to the point where he pouted about it on Twitter before comparing himself to the likes of Tom Brady and Aaron Donald.

Yikes.

Entering Week 10, the Giants are 2-7, which was somewhat expected. I had them pegged as a 5-11 team entering the 2019 campaign.

As for the Jets, they haven't come close to meeting some loftier preseason expectations. While many thought they could flirt with the .500 mark this season, they're 1-7.

Throughout the history of the Giants and Jets' regular-season rivalry, both teams have rarely been in contention.

In fact, out of 13 meetings all-time, both teams have been at or under .500 in seven of them.

The Giants and Jets' combined 2019 record of 3-14 is the worst winning percentage the rivalry has ever seen. It narrowly beats out a Week 9 meeting in 1974 when the 1-7 Jets defeated the 2-6 Giants 26-20 at the Yale Bowl.

Maybe this is the year to spend Sunday afternoon raking some leaves or preparing for Thanksgiving or literally anything but watching the Giants and Jets.

Again, think of the children.

OPINION

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno

When it comes to dealing with a perennial loser, the backlash from fed-up fans, pundits, even team employees, is usually directed toward the players or the head coach, or the general manager, or the team's owner.

When it comes to the New York Knicks, all of those positions at times have been plenty guilty over the past 20 years — especially when owner James Dolan's name crops up in conversation.

He's become the face of the organization's downfall, and rightly so.

The Knicks have been the joke of the NBA since the start of the millennium. They have 15 losing seasons in the previous 18 and a 1-7 start to 2019-20 is all but guaranteeing a 16th in 19 years.

The personnel he's brought in to run the team have been suspect. Whether you're looking at general managers or head coaches, the list of incompetence is too numerous to fit on this page.

Nor do I really have the time, patience or mental fortitude to rehash some of those seasons.

But one name that for some reason has escaped the chopping block is team president Steve Mills — who celebrated quite a milestone this week.

Wednesday night proved to be Mills' 500th game with the Knicks organization, either as the general manager or team president. He assumed the role of the latter in 2017 after the departure of Phil Jackson.

It ended in a familiar result: a 122-102 loss to the Detroit Pistons, as his record with the team now stands at an abysmal 164-336.

And that's just dating back to 2013.

Mills previously served as the chief operating officer and sports business president of MSG where he was responsible for supervising day-to-day operations of the Knicks, Rangers and Liberty from 2003-2009.

The Knicks made the playoffs just once.

When he took a four-year hiatus to work with Magic Johnson Enterprises, the Knicks made the postseason three times under GM Glen Grunwald.

Yet Mills still has a job with the organization. Probably because he has no problem doing Dolan's dirty work.

A report from ESPN last month revealed that Dolan was the main reason why the Knicks' last playoff team was broken up. He didn't want to keep veteran players following a post-season berth and 54-win season in 2012-13.

Grunwald apparently, did.

So Dolan fired Grunwald just days before the start of the 2013-14 season, brought in Mills, and the rest is history. The Knicks won 37 games that season and just 17 the next.

They haven't won more than 37 games in a season since Mills' return to the Garden, which included a second 17-win campaign last year. Their current streak of five-straight 50-loss seasons is a franchise record and No. 6 looks to be on its way shortly.

The Knicks struck out on big-name free agents and are taking the "Plan B" route of trying to build a young team.

Yet 30-year-old Marcus Morris is putting up the second-most minutes on the team so far while young, budding center Mitchell Robinson is taking a backseat to Julius Randle.

The finger-pointing will obviously be directed at head coach David Fizdale. But he has to try and win with a roster put together by Mills and GM Scott Perry.

They did nothing to help, which is par for the course when looking at Mills' track record in the Big Apple.
